were given for the shaurock and her owner.

When Sir Thomas came over the gang plank he was received with another great cheer. He took off his cap and bowed, and there was a smile ou his face. He was pushed and jostied about in the great throng like a countryman in line for a telekt at a circus but he took it all in good nature.

"Upon my word, I did not expect this," said he as Mestrs. Fife and Ratzey and a couple of members of the New York Yasht club, aided by several policeman, made a way for him through the crowd. "Is this the way they welcome the men who come to get the capp?"

You're all right, Sir Thomas,

"You'l get a voice.
"I don't doubt it." answered Sir Thomas, laughingly. "You've always done that."
No cup challenger was ever before given a reception that would compare with that accorded to Sir Thomas.
